

Families In Action and Governor's Institute on Alcohol & Substance Abuse
Present a Community Event - Free and Open to the Public

How to Raise a Drug-Free Kid

THE STRAIGHT DOPE
FOR PARENTS

WHAT KIDS DON'T REVEAL
WHAT PARENTS NEED TO KNOW

Joseph A. Califano, Jr.

Founder and Chair of The National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University

Mr. Califano is committed to helping America's families raise healthy children. At this special community forum he will share almost 20 years worth of insight and research on what really prevents children from using drugs and alcohol.

He will share information to help parents and other care givers understand that they have the greatest influence on their children's decision to use drugs and alcohol. Mr. Califano will take time to answer your questions and assist you with your concerns about raising drug free children in our challenging world.

There is no charge for this event. It is being offered by the sponsors as a community service for the children of North Carolina.

An evening with the author of the new book How to Raise a Drug-Free Kid:
The Straight Dope for Parents

Joseph A. Califano, Jr.

Chairman and Founder of The National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University. He served as the former U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Thursday - September 24

7:00-8:30 pm

Cary Academy
Fine Arts Building Theater

Questions & More Information: Please call the Governor's Institute at 256-7419 or visit www.preventionistheanswer.org

CARY ACADEMY is located at 1500 North Harrison Avenue off Interstate 40 - Exit 289.

EVENT SPONSORS & FRIENDS

Governor's Institute on Alcohol & Substance Abuse, Inc.

www.governorsinstitute.org

Families in Action

www.familiesinaction.org

Quail Ridge Books

www.quailridgebooks.com

Cary Academy

www.caryacademy.org